Not illustrated. 1905 Excerpt: .intended for the corporate welfare and to be employed in the manner which is best fitted to secure this. Everything that can be said, however, falls far short of a legal justification of contributions to the campaign fund of a political party, either to sustain the principles which one such organization professes to represent or to overthrow those advocated by another. If it could be shown, of course, that the executive officers of a corporation owning a large amount of securities had reasonable ground to apprehend the supremacy of a political party whose success at the polls would mean a considerable depreciation in the values of the corporate properties, the moral aspect of the application of corporate funds to prevent such possible loss would be, perhaps, less serious. But too often, it is feared, the real motive of a secret transfer of funds from the treasury of a corporation to the coffers of a political party, has been to further the personal interests or ambitions of the individual author of the act of official munificence. ANTE-NUPTIAL LAW--LATE LEADING CASES. Ante-nuptial law, if we may be permitted to coin a term to embrace all actions growing out of and incidental to contracts to marry or their breach, has been recently enriched by two decisions of the Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court, which have not received the notice they deserve. The first of these was rendered in an action brought by a Miss Tillie Kirman...
