Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Dwarf: A Dramatic Poem The principal part of this poem was written in England, in the summer of 1838, and it was not until the fall of last year that the author had either leisure or disposition to complete it. Many imperfections will be perceived, and most probably, also, pointed out. In its publication, he has consulted as much his own pleasure, as the wish of several friends, and he is not even inclined to implore the generosity of criticism. Among several gentlemen to whom the manuscript of the poem was submitted, some few objected to the character of The Dwarf Although it is hoped, for the sake of human nature, that few such distorted minds blot the fair fields of creation, yet the author presumes that the character he has sketched can scarcely be deemed unnatural. Those who are surrounded with the happy household band, and the thousand endearments of domestic felicity, will scarcely appreciate the effect produced by a consciousness of injury on the sensitive mind - the withering bitterness, that mantling ever around the heart, poisons the flowers of kindness which would often flourish there, and gnaws like a viper on the homeless spirit.
